

The competition part of the forum gathers projects in different categories from all over the world, which struggle against each other for the first places of “Computer Space”.

Everybody can participate in the competition part with a project (one or more), as long as it complies with the Participation Rules. The project should be registered in one of the following categories:

- Computer graphics
- Computer animation
- Offline multimedia
- Computer and electronic music
- Web design: art & culture
- Web design: society & institutions
- Web design: entertainment & hobby
- Web design: technology & market
- Web design: information & media

The projects registration continues for a few months, usually starting in spring and ending in autumn. When the registration is over, the projects are evaluated by an independent jury of experts in the fields of the categories of the competition. The jury determines the winners, and at first it nominates five projects in each category as potential winners. The nominees are announced on the Computer Space site usually one month before the award ceremony. The 1-st, 2-nd and 3-rd place, as well as the winners of special prizes, are announced during the award ceremony.
